DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

CALCUTTA, APRIL 19, 1918.

Supplementary Memorandum on the SESAMUM (til or jinjili) crop of 1917-18.

This memorandum deals with the final estimates or the crop received from Madras and Hyderabad, nd supplements the Final Memorandum issued on he 15th January last.

Madras (16·2 per cent of the total area under esamum in British India).—The total area is now stimated at 824,000 acres, which is 6 per cent bove last year's area. In the Carnatic and the entral districts the area extended owing partly o the crop replacing groundnut and partly to avourable rains encouraging sowings of the late rop. In the South there was a decrease attributed o the spread of Cambodia cotton. The total ield is estimated at 111,000 tons as against 105,000 ons last year, or an increase of 6 per cent. But he Director of Agriculture remarks that it is too arly to make any reliable estimate of the yield of he late crop, which has only recently been sown.

Hyderabad reports the area sown to be 589,000 cres, which is 3 per cent above the area of last ear. The yield is estimated at 19,000 tons, as com-ared with 31,000 tons last year or a decrease of 9 per cent.

Consequent on the revised figures noted above, the stimates in the table appended to the final forecast, ssued in January last, require modification, and he general results for all the provinces from which eports have been received are as follows :—

	Acres	Tons
917-18	4,342,000	386,000

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

CALCUTTA, APRIL 20, 1918.

Special WHEAT FORECAST, 1917-18.

This Special Forecast is based on reports received from local authorities and refers to 98·5 per cent of the total reported wheat acreage of India. In the table below comparison is made with the estimates given in the Special Forecast made at this time last year.

The total area now reported is 35,461,000 acres as compared with 32,962,000 acres at this time last year, or an increase of nearly 8 per cent. As compared with the final figures of last year (32,940,000 acres), the present estimate also shows an increase of 8 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 10,277,000 tons as against 9,929,000 tons estimated at this time last year, or an increase of 3·5 per cent. Although there was an increase in the area there was not owing to deficient winter rains, anything like a similar increase in outturn. All things considered the outturn of the crop is slightly above the revised final estimates of last year (10,234,000 tons).

General condition of the crop.—The failure of the winter rains affected the unirrigated* crop but the rainfall in March improved its prospects, especially in the Punjab. The condition of the irrigated crop continues to be good, particularly in the Punjab, the United Provinces, and Bombay.

The detailed figures are as follows :—

It will be seen that the present estimate of yield as against the estimate made at this time last year shows an increase of 38 per cent in the North-West Frontier Province, 29 per cent in the Punjab, 10 per cent in Bombay, 7 per cent in Rajputana, and 5 per cent in Sind ; while the Central Provinces and Berar show a decrease of no less than 30 per cent, Bihar and Orissa 15 per cent, Hyderabad 11 per cent, and the United Provinces 6 per cent.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Punjab (33·3 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The combined area of British districts and Native States is estimated at 11,618,000 acres, which is 5 per cent larger than the area reported at this time last year. The area sown in British districts is reported to be 10,308,000 acres, which is also about 5 per cent above last year, and that in Native States 1,310,000 acres, which is 9 per cent above last year's corresponding estimate. The total yield in British districts is estimated by the District Officers at 3,063,000 tons, but the provincial Director of Agriculture considers this an underestimate, and believes that the total outturn will not be much under 3,250,000 tons, as compared with 2,434,000 tons, estimated at this time last year. The total estimated yield in the Native States is 410,000 tons as against 400,000 tons reported at this time last year. The winter rains held off till the beginning of March. Light rain fell in the first half of that month and was followed in the second half by heavy rain in the central and submontane districts, and moderate rain elsewhere. This greatly improved the prospects, although it would have been more useful, had it come earlier. Rain received in the first week of April and continuing at the date of report (9th April) has done some harm, but it has not, at any rate, as yet, done any considerable damage, except in low-lying lands, and in parts of the Multan division, where it was accompanied, in places, by hail and high winds. The condition and expected outturn of the standing crops are good on irrigated areas, and fair on unirrigated areas.

United Provinces (22·8 per cent of the total area under wheat in India) :—The total area under wheat, pure and mixed, is reported to be 7,156,000 acres, which is about 5 per cent above the estimate made at this time last year. The total yield is at present estimated at 2,860,000 tons, which is 6 per cent below the corresponding estimate of last year. The winter rains failed over the whole province, light showers only being received in December and January. February was rainless and the temperature was high for the time of the year with hot winds, which did some injury to the crops. The weather in March was unsettled and towards the end of that month heavy showers with hail fell in the western districts. The rainfall was in time to do some good to the unirrigated crops in these districts, although the damage from hail was in places serious. Harvesting is now approaching completion in the eastern districts and in Bundelkhand, and is in full swing in the western districts. The crop on irrigated land is good, but the unirrigated wheat is not equal to that of last year. For the province, as a whole, the average outturn is estimated at 90 per cent of the normal, as compared with 95 per cent last year.

(a) Including Native States.

* The unirrigated wheat area is on the average of the five years ending 1915-16, about 49 per cent of the total wheat area in the Punjab, 51 per cent in the United Provinces, and 72 per cent in the North-West Frontier Province.

Central Provinces and Berar (11·6 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area sown is now estimated at 3,981,000 acres (394,000 acres being in Berar and 182,000 acres in the Native States of Khairagarh and Nandgaon), which is 1 per cent above the area reported at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 817,000 tons (77,000 tons being in Berar and 35,000 tons in the Native States), which is 30 per cent below the corresponding estimate of last year. The seasonal conditions were not favourable to the wheat crop. The absence of the usual winter showers and dew in the early cold weather stunted the growth of the plants. Light rain fell in most districts at the end of February and March, but the showers were neither sufficient nor opportune to be of much benefit. Only Jubbulpore and the Chattisgarh tract expect a normal yield or little over. The crop has been seriously affected in Hoshangabad, where the outturn is estimated at only 45 per cent of the normal. The production in Damoh, Mandla, and Balaghat is expected to be 90 per cent. In the remaining districts the estimate ranges from 60 to 80 per cent of the normal. For both the Central Provinces and Berar the average outturn is estimated at 75 per cent of the normal as against 110 per cent last year. The yield in the Native States of Khairagarh and Nandgaon is expected to be normal.

Bombay (6·1 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is now reported to be 2,433,000 acres (including 633,000 acres in Native States), which is 12 per cent in excess of the area reported at this time last year. The total estimated outturn is 635,000 tons (200,000 tons being in Native States), which is 10 per cent above the corresponding estimate of last year. Some isolated showers were received in March in the Deccan and in the Karnatak, but these do not seem to have affected the crop in any way. The crop has generally done well, and the harvesting of the unirrigated crop has been almost finished and its threshing is in full swing. The irrigated crop is being harvested.

Sind (1·7 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is now estimated to be 669,000 acres (23,000 acres being in the Native State), which is 12 per cent above the area reported at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 181,000 tons (5,000 tons being in the Native State), which is 5 per cent more than the corresponding estimate of last year. Owing to the absence of rain, the crop has been only fair, and in Nawabshah it is reported to have been further damaged by frost.

Bihar and Orissa (4·2 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The area sown is reported to be 1,224,000 acres, which is about 6 per cent below the estimate made at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 507,000 tons, which is 15 per cent below the corresponding estimate of last year. In March light rain was fairly general over the province. The weather conditions were favourable in the beginning of the season, but owing to the lack of winter rains the crop has suffered to some extent in most districts of Bihar. According to the estimates of District Officers the provincial outturn works out to 81 per cent of the normal, but the provincial Director remarks that in some districts the outturn appears to have been underestimated and is of opinion that the outturn will be about 95 per cent of the normal, as against 105 per cent last year; and on this basis the total yield stated above has been estimated.

North-West Frontier Province (3·3 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is now reported to be 1,248,000 acres, which is about 28 per cent more than the corresponding estimate of last year. The total yield is estimated at 303,000 tons, which is about 38 per cent above the estimate made at this time last year. With the exception of Dera Ismail Khan where the yield is estimated at more than normal, the crop is generally average on irrigated and below average on unirrigated lands. The recent excessive rainfall has damaged the crop in some parts of the province, and there is danger of still further loss if the wet weather continues.

Bengal (0·4 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 124,000 acres, which is 4 per cent below the estimate made at this time last year. The total estimated yield is 32,000 tons, which is 20 per cent less than the corresponding estimate of last year. Prolonged drought considerably damaged the crop in the important districts. The average outturn for the province works out to 67 per cent of the normal, as against 81 per cent last year.

Delhi (0·1 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The estimates for the province are 42,000 acres and 12,000 tons as against 36,000 acres and 12,000 tons at this time last year. The scarcity of rainfall after sowing affected the yield of unirrigated crops.

Ajmer-Merwara (0·04 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The area and yield are 19,000 acres and 6,000 tons, which are 32 and 40 per cent below the estimate made at this time last year.

Central India (9·4 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area sown is estimated at 4,288,000 acres, which is 24 per cent above the estimate made at this time last year. The total estimated yield is 867,000 tons, which is 2 per cent more than the corresponding estimate of last year. Detailed figures are as follows:—

Wheat in foreign countries.—The latest available information published by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, is as follows :—

The area sown in 1917-18 with winter wheat in the United States of America is reported to be 42,152,000 acres, which is 5 per cent above the estimate of 1916-17. In France 11,355,000 acres have been sown with winter wheat which is 7 per cent over the estimate of 1916-17. In Canada the area sown with winter wheat is estimated at 711,000 acres, which is about 4 per cent below the estimate of 1916-17. The area sown in the Argentine is estimated at 17,868,000 acres as against 16,082,000 acres in 1916-17. The estimate for Australia is 10,016,000 acres in 1917-18, as against 11,525,000 acres in the previous year.

From unofficial sources it appears that in the United States of America, inspite of all the rain and snow during the winter, the soil in Kansas and Oklahoma is still too dry; alternate frost and thaw are causing damage; elsewhere in the winter belt the condition of the soil is good. In Australia the weather is reported to have been generally favourable for harvesting. In France and Italy the agricultural position is generally satisfactory.

Joint Stock Companies.

MARCH, 1918 AND APRIL 1917 TO MARCH 1918.

During the month under report as many as 60 companies were registered with an authorised capital of Rs. 5,05 lakhs, Bengal alone accounting for Rs. 4,32 lakhs. It is not improbable that in view of the restrictions imposed on company flotation by Act XII of 1918 (passed on 22nd March 1918), a large number of companies was floated in that month before the enforcement of the provisions of the Act. For the twelve months, April 1917 to March 1918, the number of companies registered was 278, with an authorised capital of Rs. 30,58, as against 184 companies with Rs. 17,26 lakhs of authorised capital in the preceding year. The following statement shows the trend of registrations in recent years :—

1917-18	278	78	30,57,93,000	46	11,00,000

It will be seen that as compared with 1913-14, the prewar year, there was in 1914-15 a considerable falling off in the number and authorised capital of new companies registered, owing to (1) the stringent provisions of the Indian Companies Act, VII of 1913, which came into force on 1st April 1914, some of the flotations of 1913-14, especially among the banking, insurance, navigation and cotton manufacturing companies, having been made in order to take advantage of the milder registration law then in force ; (2) the banking crisis in 1913-14 followed by (3) the financial stringency due to war. Since 1914-15 there has been a steady increase both in the number of companies and in the aggregate authorised capital as also in the average authorised capital per company although the record of 1913-14 has not yet been reached. Table No. 2 shows the various classes of companies that were registered in British India and the Mysore State during the five years ending 1917-18. The total number of companies registered during the four war years (1914-15 to 1917-18) is 705 with a total authorised capital of Rs. 59,47,32,000.

In the United Kingdom, it is interesting to note by way of comparison, that the number of companies registered declined from 7,425 in 1913 to 3,963 in 1917 and the nominal capital from £157,187,000 to £67,814,000. The following statement shows the number of companies registered, and the nominal capital invested therein, in the United Kingdom, during the five years ending 1917 :—

Harvesting has been completed in the Central Provinces and Berar, Bombay, Bihar and Orissa, and Bengal; it is approaching completion in the United Provinces, the Punjab, and Ajmer-Merwara, and is expected to be finished by the end of this month in the North-West Frontier Province. Threshing has commenced in the Punjab, and is in full swing in the United Provinces and Bihar and Orissa, while it is approaching completion in the Central Provinces and Berar, in Bombay, and in Bengal.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

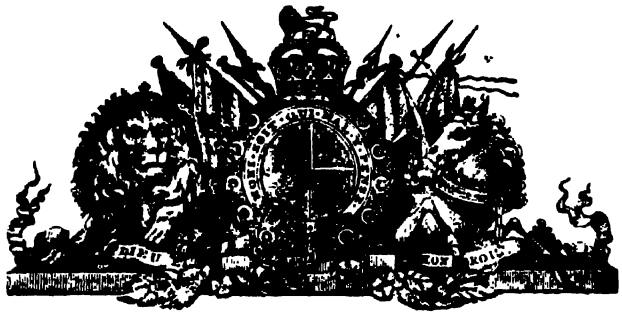
Punjab.—There has been no change in the estimate of area or of outturn given in the Special Forecast. No rain of importance fell in April. Harvesting commenced generally in the middle of April and will be completed before the middle of this month. Threshing has just commenced. The average outturn is estimated at 105 per cent of the normal on irrigated lands, and 90 per cent on unirrigated lands.

United Provinces.—No change has been reported in the estimate of area or of outturn. Harvesting operations are approaching completion, and threshing and winnowing are in full swing. The new crop is rapidly coming on the market in the eastern districts and in Bundelkhand. The grain is for the most part plump and in good condition.

Central Provinces and Berar.—The area sown in the British districts is now estimated at 3,929,000 acres, which is 2 per cent above the estimate made in the Special Forecast (April). The estimate for the Native States of Khairagarh and Nandgaon remains unchanged (132,000 acres). The combined area now comes to 4,061,000 acres, as against 3,981,000 acres reported in the Special Forecast. No change has been made in the estimate of yield. The weather has been clear and hot. Harvesting has been completed, and threshing and winnowing operations are approaching completion. The average outturn for the British districts stands at 75 per cent of the normal, while a normal crop is expected in the Native States.

Bombay and Sind.—No change has been reported in the estimate of area or of yield. Harvesting has been completed in the Presidency. Threshing has been finished in the Karnatak, and will be over by the middle of this month in Gujarat and in the Deccan. In Sind slight damage by the recent floods is reported from parts of Nawabshah and Sukkur. A low outturn is anticipated all over Sind.

Bihar and Orissa.—No change has been reported in the estimate of area or of yield. Harvesting has been finished. Threshing is in full swing, and is approaching completion. The yield is expected to be fair, and the average outturn is conditionally estimated at 95 per cent of the normal.



North-West Frontier Province.—The total area is now estimated at 1,237,000 acres as against 1,248,000 acres reported in the Special Forecast. Rain has again fallen, accompanied by hailstorms, causing slight damage to standing crops in parts. Harvesting has been delayed on account of heavy rain in April, and is still in progress in Dera Ismail Khan, where it is expected to be completed by the 25th of May. Reports of yield are generally satisfactory, and the average outturn is on the whole expected to be normal.

Bengal.—There has been no change in the estimate of area or of yield. The crop has considerably suffered through want of rain since January. Harvesting has been completed, and threshing is also nearly finished. Reports of yield are mostly unsatisfactory, and the average outturn is estimated at 69 per cent of the normal.

Delhi.—No change has been reported in the estimate of area sown. The average outturn is estimated at normal for the irrigated crop, and 75 per cent of the normal for the unirrigated crop.

Ajmer-Merwara.—The total area is now estimated at 22,000 acres, as against 19,000 acres reported in the Special Forecast. Harvesting is expected to be completed by the middle of this month. Threshing is in full swing. The average outturn is estimated at 75 per cent of the normal.

The 16,656 deaths reported above are 266 fewer than in the previous week. The persistence of infection in Rajputana, an unusual prevalence of plague in Jammu, an increased mortality in the Punjab and a markedly decreased mortality in Bombay are the facts of chief interest in the above statement.

During April there were approximately 87,000 deaths from plague reported in India. This total has been exceeded in April on seven occasions, viz., in 1903, 127,000; 1904, 245,000: 1905, 276,000; 1907, 373,000; 1910, 93,000; 1911, 188,000; 1915, 118,000. The most heavily infected administrations in April were the Punjab with 31,920 deaths, the United Provinces with 20,862 deaths and Rajputana with 13,118 deaths.

Burma.—Light to moderate rain was general throughout the Province. Reaping of spring and sowing of summer rice are proceeding In Upper Burma clearing of lands for cultivation has begun. Standing crops are generally satisfactory. Live stock is generally healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen slightly and is much below normal. The market for white rice is steady at Rs. 190 for specials.

Assam.—The weather during the week was hot and the rainfall scanty. Manufacture of tea, sowing of autumn and broadcast winter rice, jute and cotton and planting of sugarcane are in progress. Sowing for winter rice seedlings has commenced. Crop prospects are fair. Cattle disease is reported from seven districts. The price of common rice is stationary.

Bengal.—Moderate to heavy rain was general throughout the Province. Heavy rain in places temporarily retarded ploughing and manuring of fields for paddy and harvesting of summer rice. Sowing of jute and autumn paddy continues in the western districts. Prospects of both these crops so far are good. The average price of common rice has fallen slightly.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light to moderate rain fell in most districts of the Province. Threshing of spring crops is approaching completion. Preparation of lands for the next season's crops continues. Standing crops are generally doing well. The price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the preceding week. Cattle disease is reported from several districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—Light rain has been general almost throughout the Province. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops, sowing and hoeing of sugarcane, irrigation of sugarcane and extra crops, weighment of opium and preparation of land for and sowing of autumn crops and indigo in places continue. Standing crops are doing well and prospects are favourable. Agricultural stock is in good condition and little cattle disease is reported. Fodder and water are sufficient. Market supplies are ample. Prices are tending to rise generally.

The weekly report on scarcity in Garhwal is as follows:—Light rain fell during the week. Harvesting of spring crops is nearing completion and threshing and winnowing continue. Barley and jhangora are germinating. Cattle disease is still reported from some pattis. Fodder and water are sufficient. Measures have been taken to start distribution of gratuitous relief. Advances for importing grain and grants of subsistence takavi are being made. Grain is being steadily imported. Markets in central Garhwal are well supplied. Grain is being taken into the north of Garhwal by persons to whom money has been advanced. The ripening of spring crops has somewhat improved the condition in the north. Local committees have been formed for the distribution of charitable relief. Prices are still high with a tendency to fall. Wheat and barley are selling at 5 and 7 seers per rupee respectively

Punjab.—The weather during the week was dry. The condition of standing irrigated crops is good and of unirrigated crops average: Harvesting of wheat and other spring crops continues. The yield is normal to good on irrigated and below normal to normal on unirrigated areas. Sowings of sugarcane, cotton and other autumn crops continue and are generally normal. Germination is good. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are generally stationary but show a slight downward tendency. They range between normal and warning rates except in Mianwali and Multan where they are between normal and scarcity rates. Price of wheat:—Ambala 10½, Lahore 9½, and Ferozepore and Lyallpur 10 seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Slight rain fell in places. Sowings of cotton, rice and extra spring crops are proceeding normally. Harvesting of spring crops is in progress. Prospects are fair to good. Wheat is selling in Peshawar at 8½ and in Dera Ismail Khan at 9½ seers per rupee.

Jammu.—Prices are stationary. Harvesting is approaching completion. No rain fell during the week.

Rajputana.—The weather during the week was hot. Harvesting of spring crops is concluding. Prospects are good. Cattle are in good condition. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are steady.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week except in the Southern States and Malwa. Harvesting, threshing and winnowing of spring crops continue. Lands are being prepared for autumn crops. Standing crops are in fair condition and their outturn will probably be below normal in Gwalior and Malwa and fair elsewhere. Agricultural stock is generally good. Scarcity of fodder prevails in some parganas in Gwalior. Prices are high.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been hot and occasionally cloudy. Wardha and Amraoti received rain amounting to 2 and 1½ inches respectively. Eight other districts also received light showers nowhere exceeding an inch. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops continue in a few districts. Harvesting of spring crop is practically over and agriculturists are engaged in ploughing fields for the sowing of the ensuing season's crops. Juar fell by 2½ seers per rupee in Akola. Other variations in prices are unimportant but indicate a slight upward tendency. Cattle are generally faring well except in Hoshangabad. FORM 24.

ASSESSMENT LIST.

(Under section 30 of the Income Tax Act of 1918.)

Income tax year 19__ -19 __.

Serial No.	Name.	Address.	Sources of income.	Amount of total income.	Amount of taxable income.	Amount of tax.

*Dated*_____ 19 . _____,

Section 43(2)(b).

1. The taxable income of life assurance companies shall be determined by taking the annual average of the total profit disclosed by the last preceding valuation while, as a concession, if the tax deducted at the source from interest on investments exceeds the tax on profits thus calculated, a refund shall be permitted of the amount by which the deduction from interest on investments exceeds the tax payable on profits.

2. The same rule shall apply to the determination of the taxable income derived from the Annuity and Capital Redemption business of those companies, the profits of which can also most equitably be ascertained from the results of an actuarial valuation.

3. In other classes of insurance business (Fire, Marine, Personal, Accident, Employers' Liability, Fidelity Guarantee, Burglary, Third Party, etc) the amounts actually credited by an insurance company in the ordinary accounts of its business for the year of assessment to any fund established for the sole purpose of forming a reserve to meet outstanding or unexpired liabilities to policy-holders (including therein risk of exceptional losses) shall be treated as expenditure incurred solely for the purpose of earning the profits of the business in determining the taxable income of the insurance company in that year. It is, however, necessary to impose the following safeguards against abuse:—

(1) all sums on account of unexpired risks, which a company wishes to have treated as expenditure for income tax (or supertax) purposes, must actually be credited to a fund in the accounts of the company;

(2) they must also be specifically appropriated to meet liabilities under existing contracts; and

(3) the contracts must be with policy-holders.

4. Sums placed to the Investment Reserve Fund of life assurance companies for the purposes of meeting depreciation in the value of securities are not assessed to tax because they represent a loss, and not a profit. Amounts actually credited by companies transacting other kinds of insurance business of any kind in the ordinary accounts of their business for the year of assessment to their Investment Reserve Fund for the purpose of meeting depreciation in the value of their securities shall also be treated as expenditure incurred for the purpose of earning the profits of the business in determining the taxable income of the insurance company in that year.

5. In the case of companies carrying on Dividing Society or Assessment business, the profits are not ordinarily ascertainable by actuarial valuation. Their taxable income, in these circumstances, shall be fixed at 15 per cent of the premium income in the year of assessment.

Where a non-resident company carries on Dividing Society or Assessment business in India the assessment shall then be 15 per cent of the Indian premium income.

6. The foregoing rules relate merely to the determination of taxable income from different classes of insurance business. The actual assessment of an insurance company carrying on more than one class of business will, in accordance with the Act, be determined as to its rate and amount by its aggregate taxable income from all the classes of business which it carries on.

Section 43 (2) (d).

1. Application for composition of assessment under section 43 (2) (d) of the Act shall be made in writing to the Collector before the tax for the year is assessed by the Collector.

2. If the application is sanctioned the applicant shall execute an agreement in form 22 within one month from the date on which the amount of composition is notified to him. If he fails to execute the agreement within the above period the Collector may proceed to assess him as if no application for composition had been made and sanctioned.

Note.—The proper stamp duty on an agreement for composition is eight annas under article 5 (b) of schedule I of the Indian Stamp Act 1899 (Act II of 1899), and a stamp of the same amount is requisite for the counterpart of the agreement under article 25 of the said schedule.

3. The agreement shall be made in two parts, one of such parts executed by the compounding party remaining with the Collector and the other part signed by the Collector remaining with the compounding party.

4. No agreements for composition shall cover a period of more than three years.

5. Agreements for composition shall relate only to the income on which the tax will be assessed and not to the amount of tax payable which shall be assessed year after year on the aforesaid amount of the income.

6. No agreements for composition shall be made with companies or cover income chargeable under heads "Salaries" and "Interest on Securities."

7. No agreements for composition for any tax chargeable under the Act shall be entered into unless the income on which such tax is to be assessed amounts to Rs. 2,000 or upwards and is, in the opinion of the Collector, likely to be stable during the next three years.

8. In order to arrive at the amount on which the tax should be compounded the Collector should institute inquiries as to the probability of a future increase or decrease in the applicant's income. The amount of the composition should not be less than the full amount which is estimated as the average income during the period for which the composition is made.

9. If the party, who has compounded dies or becomes bankrupt or insolvent or, in the case of a firm, goes into liquidation (whether voluntarily or under the orders of a competent court) before the expiration of the period comprised in the agreement, the agreement shall cease to have force on the 31st day of March next after such death, bankruptcy, insolvency, or liquidation proceedings, save and except as to any portion of the amount of tax which before the said day shall have become payable and shall then be unpaid.

This rule shall not affect the second proviso to section 19 of the Act.

10. Fraud on the part of the party compounding in stating the income or otherwise shall render the agreement null and void.

11. Agreement for composition already is force under section 31 of the Income Tax Act, 1886, shall not be disturbed.

5. If the compounding party dies or becomes bankrupt or insolvent, or (in the case of a firm) goes into liquidation before the expiration of the said period of years, this agreement shall determine on the 31st day of March next after such death, bankruptcy, insolvency or going into liquidation save and except as to any portion of the amount of tax which before the said day shall have become payable and shall then be unpaid.

6. If during the period for which the composition is made the rate of tax is enhanced or reduced, the tax shall be enhanced or reduced in the same proportion.

7. If the agreement is shown to the satisfaction of the Collector aforesaid to have been obtained by fraud on the part of the compounding party in stating his income or otherwise, it shall be void and of no effect, and the Collector aforesaid shall proceed to assess income tax upon him in accordance with law.

ACCOUNTS AND FINANCE.
PUBLIC DEBT.

The 24th May, 1918.

No. 1445-F.—The Government of India, in the expectation that their officers of all grades will wish to give as liberal support to the Second Indian War Loan as they did to the first, have decided to afford them the same facilities for subscribing to it by monthly deductions from their pay as were granted last year, and have sanctioned, for this purpose, the scheme which is described in the memorandum attached to this notification. In all essentials this scheme is an exact replica of the Government scheme which was in operation in connection with the first Indian War Loan, but the actual terms and date of issue of the Second Indian War Loan have necessitated a few alterations in detail. In particular it will be observed that the scheme does not provide for the purchase of stock through the Post Office. As interest on all War Bonds in the Second Indian War Loan is income-tax free, purchase through the Post Office does not secure any special income-tax concession.

Government Scheme.

5½ per cent War Bonds 1921 ; 5½ per cent War Bonds 1925 ; 5½ per cent War Bonds 1925 ; 5½ per cent War Bonds 1928.

(All Income-tax free.)

Note.—War Bonds 1925 are repayable at Rs. 103 per cent, and War Bonds 1928 at Rs. 105 per cent.

Monthly Payments per Rs. 100 of Stock

	Rs.
Ten monthly instalments of Rs. 10	100

First instalment to be deducted from the pay bill presented at the beginning of June or July 1918.

Last instalment to be deducted from the pay bill presented at the beginning of March or April 1919.

As soon as possible after the 15th March 1919 or the date on which the last instalment is paid, whichever is later, a Stock Certificate for the amount subscribed will be transferred to the subscriber carrying interest from the 15th March 1919, together with a cash payment, on account of interest on each Rs. 100 subscribed, of—

	Rs.	a.	p.
When the 1st instalment is paid in June	2	4	1
.. .. .. July	13	2

General Provisions.

1 Any number of subscriptions, of Rs. 100 for any of the four series of bonds, may be made by a subscriber on the above terms. Subscriptions cannot be made for fractions of Rs. 100.

2 An officer wishing to subscribe by this method should fill up the attached form and cause it to be attached to the pay bill from which he wishes the first deduction of pay to be made. He must, as provided for in the form, state clearly the full amount for which he is subscribing.

3 Instalments will continue to be deducted from the leave allowances of a subscriber who proceeds on leave, unless he is specially permitted to withdraw from the scheme under the following rule.

4 a On furnishing special reasons which appear to the Head of his Office to be adequate, and on giving one month's notice, a subscriber may withdraw from this scheme before completing his instalments, and in that event he will receive back the amount he has already paid, but without interest.

b A subscriber ceasing to be employed in Government service before the payments are completed may be repaid without interest the amount which he has paid in ; provided that if he retires on pension he may continue his payments by deductions from his pension.

c If a subscriber dies before his subscriptions have been completed, his estate will receive the amount thereof with interest thereon, at the rate of 5½ per cent.

5 Only Inscribed Stock Certificates will be issued to subscribers under the scheme. But, on receiving their Certificates, subscribers can by applying to the Public Debt Office of issue exchange them for Promissory Notes or Bearer Bonds.

6 Detailed instructions regarding the procedure to be followed by Heads of Offices and Audit Offices in giving effect to this scheme are being issued separately.

I wish to subscribe to the Second Indian War Loan, to the extent stated below, under the terms of the Government of India Notification No 1445-F., dated the 24th May 1918, and authorise you to make the necessary deductions from my pay bill presented in each of the 10 months _____ 1918 to _____ 1919 inclusive, and to pay the amounts so deducted to the Second Indian War Loan account.

LIST F.

Goods of every description [other than (1) printed matter of all descriptions, and (2) personal effects accompanied by their owners], whether mentioned in the foregoing lists or not, are prohibited from export to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland in accordance with the Royal Proclamation of 29th September 1917.

In this connection attention is drawn to the following reprint of a notice which appeared in the Public Press of the 4th October, 1917.

The Director of the War Trade Department calls attention to the Royal Proclamation of September 29th, 1917, prohibiting the export, as from October 8th, 1917, of all goods (with the following exceptions) to Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Holland:

1. Printed matter of all descriptions (which will remain subject to the censorship regulations).
2. Personal effects accompanied by their owner.

It is not proposed immediately to refuse all consideration of applications for the grant of licenses for the export of goods which have not hitherto been prohibited from export to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Holland, but which now become prohibited under the Royal Proclamation in question. Exporters are warned, however, that the continuance of this arrangement must not be counted upon. The special arrangements in regard to the export of goods to Sweden, notified in the announcement issued by the War Trade Department on August 18th, 1916, are withdrawn as from October 8th, 1917, Sweden being thus placed on the same footing as the other Scandinavian countries and Holland. This order also applies to articles consigned by parcels post.

Simla, the 16th May, 1918.

RESOLUTION.

It was announced in the House of Commons on the 20th of August 1917 that the policy of His Majesty's Government, in respect of the future of this country, was that of increasing the association of Indians in every branch of the administration and the gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realisation of responsible government in India as an integral part of the British Empire. It was added that progress in this policy could only be achieved by successive stages and that the British Government and the Government of India, on whom the responsibility lay for the welfare and advancement of the Indian peoples, must be the judges of the time and measure of each advance and must be guided by the co-operation received from those upon whom new opportunities of service would thus be conferred and by the extent to which it was found that confidence could be reposed in their sense of responsibility.

Declaration of 20th August 1917.

2. In commenting on this pronouncement in the Imperial Legislative Council on the 5th of September 1917, His Excellency the Viceroy explained that there were three roads along which an advance should be made towards the goal indicated in the above pronouncement. Of these the first road was in the domain of local self-government, the village or rural board and the town or municipal council. The domain of urban and rural self-government was the great training ground from which political progress and a sense of responsibility have taken their start, and it was felt that the time had come to quicken the advance, to accelerate the rate of progress and thus to stimulate the sense of responsibility in the average citizen and to enlarge his experience.

Progress to be made in local self-government.

The object of the present Resolution is to indicate the manner in which the Government of India would desire to initiate the progress to be made along this road of local self-government.

3. Although the beginnings of local bodies can be traced to an earlier epoch, the course of local self-government, as now understood, was first set out by the government of Lord Ripon more than 30 years ago. A determined effort was made by the Government of India in 1881 to 1884 to implant a system of local self-government in the country and much was said and written on the subject in those years. During and shortly after that period a number of Acts were passed to form the foundation of the new arrangements. There was, however, little enthusiasm about the further development of the system either in official circles or outside and the advance during subsequent years, though not inconsiderable, has on the whole been slow. As might be expected, it has been more rapid in the great towns, but it has lagged behind over the country at large.

The policy of Lord Ripon's government.

In 1907-09 the whole field of local self-government came under the consideration of the Decentralization Commission, and that Commission made a number of detailed proposals on the subject almost all of which were in the direction of giving greater scope and freedom to local bodies. These proposals were referred in 1909-10 to local Governments, and a large mass of opinions was received during the ensuing three or four years. The Secretary of State had, meantime, intimated his opinion that the time had come to undertake a general review of the results obtained by the policy of Lord Ripon's government; and the Government of India after an intermediate correspondence with the Secretary of State and local Governments complied with this desire by embodying their views on the proposals of the Commission in a comprehensive Resolution on the main problems of local self-government. This Resolution was issued in April 1915. After pointing out the degree of substantial progress that had already been achieved and the signs of vitality and growth that were everywhere apparent, it proceeded to explain the obstacles in the way of realising completely the ideals which had prompted action in the past. The smallness and inelasticity of local revenues, the difficulty of devising further forms of taxation, the indifference still prevailing in many places towards all forms of public life, the continued unwillingness of many gentlemen to submit to the troubles, expense and inconveniences of election, the unfitness of some of those whom these obstacles did not deter, the prevalence of sectarian animosities, the varying character of the municipal area—all these were causes which could not but impede the free and full development of local self-government. The growing demand among the educated classes in towns for greater efficiency involving more direct expert control in matters affecting public health and education was a further influence of a different character; but, while these and similar considerations indicated the need for caution, the Government of India, on the whole, declared themselves unhesitatingly in favour of a general policy of further progress limited only by such conditions as local circumstances might dictate. At the same time, the Resolution emphasized the fact that any attempt to exact uniformity in local administration would be foredoomed to failure, and on a review of all the circumstances the Government of India decided to accept in almost every case the conclusions of each local Government as to the degree of progress possible at the present time. The Resolution therefore, while indicating in broad outlines the ideals which the Government of India had before them, left the local Governments in most respects to move towards these ideals in the manner and at the pace which was considered best fitting to local circumstances. In some provinces—as in the United Provinces, Bengal and Assam—legislation has since been effected or initiated and in others action has been taken in other ways towards securing further progress on the lines suggested by the Commission, but as a rule the statutory provisions for local self-government have remained unchanged since the Resolution of 1915 was issued and no remarkable departure of a general character has been made from the previously existing arrangements.

In their recent correspondence with the Secretary of State on the general subject of constitutional reforms the Government of India have considered afresh the whole subject of local self-government and have laid before the Secretary of State a scheme of expansion suited to the altered circumstances of the present time. Having received his approval to their recommendations they now desire to intimate the lines upon which they would wish local Governments to move in the direction of more complete local self-government. The Government of India fully recognise that it will not be possible to make all the injunctions formulated below of absolutely uniform application and are, therefore, willing to reserve to the local Governments the power to modify their application in specific cases and for specific reasons: but they expect that in the absence of such specific occasions a substantial advance should now be made on the lines laid down, and from indications received in the course of their recent communications with heads of local Governments, they believe that the local Governments, each in its own degree, are also anxious to adopt a forward policy in general conformity with the wishes of the Government of India.

The main principles involved.

4. As the whole subject has been so recently dealt with in the Resolution of 1915, the Government of India do not propose to re-state the history or the objects and principles of local self-government in this country at any length. The first and foremost principle which was enunciated in Lord Ripon's

Resolution of May 1882 and which has since been emphasized by successive Secretaries of State, is that the object of local self-government is to train the people in the management of their own local affairs and that political education of this sort must, in the main, take precedence of considerations of departmental efficiency. It follows from this that local bodies should be as representative as possible of the people whose affairs they are called on to administer, that their authority in the matters entrusted to them should be real and not nominal, and that they should not be subjected to unnecessary control, but should learn by making mistakes and profiting by them. The general policy, therefore, must be one of the gradual removal of unnecessary Government control and of differentiating the spheres of action appropriate for Government and for local bodies respectively. So far as education is concerned, the views of the Government of India have been already communicated in their circular no. 873 of the 19th September 1916 and the present Resolution will not deal with the educational aspects of the policy. The control of Government over local bodies is at present exercised both from within and from without, and it is mainly by the substitution of outside for inside control and by the reduction of outside control, so far as is compatible with safety, that progress in the desired direction will be achieved. The internal control is capable of relaxation by the introduction of a greater use of election in the selection of members and chairmen of boards; and the external control by such means as the removal of unnecessary restrictions in connection with taxation, budgets, the sanction of works and the local establishments.

Internal control :— Elective majorities on boards.

5. In dealing with the election of members to local bodies the Decentralization Commission proposed that municipal boards and rural boards—district and sub-district—should ordinarily have a substantial elective majority, nominated members being limited to a number sufficient to provide for the due representation of minorities and of official experience. In their Resolution of 1915 the Government of India approved this policy as regards municipalities, subject to the proviso that where its success might be doubtful it should be introduced gradually; and as regards rural boards, they observed that local Governments in general were in sympathy with the Commission's proposal. At present something over a half of the members in municipalities and something under a half in rural boards are elected, and the Government of India are now of opinion that as a general principle the Commission's proposals in favour of a substantial elective majority, both as regards municipalities and as regards rural boards, should be accepted and carried out by the local Governments. Where the members of district boards are elected by the sub-district boards there is no reason to interfere with this arrangement, but the observance of the principle should be enforced as regards the elective element in the membership of the sub-district boards which make the elections for the district boards. As regards the special representation of minorities where this is necessary, the Government of India would prefer that this should be effected by retaining the practice of nomination rather than by introducing some system of communal or proportional representation. But, as regards the special representation of official experience, they consider that this might often be adequately secured by the nomination to the board of men possessed of such experience for purposes of advice or discussion only and without the right of voting. It has been suggested that, apart from the officials who would count as supernumeraries under the above arrangement, the proportion of nominated members on a board should not ordinarily exceed one-fourth; and it will be open to local Governments to adopt a standard of this character, but the Government of India recognise that in the case of boards to which the elective system has not hitherto been applied there may be local opposition to the immediate introduction of election on so extensive a scale and the proportion of nominated members on boards must necessarily vary from place to place. In cases where it is considered advisable to retain the power to nominate to a certain number of posts for the purpose of retaining the services of men who would not stand for election, it should be considered whether a system by which a proportion of the members should be co-opted by the remainder and hold office for a period longer than that ordinarily prescribed would not serve to meet the same object. In one province proposals are now under consideration for dispensing altogether with nomination by (i) omitting the official members in view of the existence of expert servants of the boards, (ii) meeting the case of minorities by communal representation, and (iii) introducing a system of co-opted 'aldermen' on the lines above described in order to attract men who will not stand for election. Except so far as it provides for communal representation, a scheme of this character coincides with the principles which the Government of India themselves advocate and, in the cases where the question of communal minorities does not arise, it indicates a line of action which ensures the full exercise of the right of election to local bodies. It should be recognised that by whatever method this may be effected a substantial increase should be secured in the present elective element in local bodies and in view of this contemplated increase the Government of India desire that district officers should as recommended in paragraph 534 of the Decentralization Commission's Report utilize their district boards more fully than at present for consultation and advice in matters of general concern which lie outside the sphere prescribed for the activities of these boards.

Extension of the franchise.

6. In accepting the proposals of the Decentralization Commission with regard to the provision of a substantial elected majority on local bodies, the Government of India desire to add the important corollary that the franchise for such election should be sufficiently low to obtain constituencies which will be really representative of the body of the rate-payers. So far as information is at present available, it would appear that the average electorate in municipalities in India represents some 6 per cent. of the population and the electorate in district boards some 3 per cent. It is recognised that a full elective system analogous to that which obtains in the West (such as the municipal franchise in England which is understood to include some 16 per cent. of the population concerned) cannot be immediately or universally applied, but it should be regarded as the end to be kept in view and worked up to. The relation of the electorate for local bodies to that which may hereafter be provided for purposes of elections to the provincial legislatures is a matter which will have to be taken up separately: but several local Governments have already under consideration an extension of the existing franchise for rural boards and where such extensions can be made without recourse to special legislation there is no objection to their being carried out at once if the local Governments concerned are of opinion that this can be done without inconvenience. An enlarged franchise is in any case an essential condition of an extension of the elected element on boards and it should be understood that the increase in the elective element on local bodies must, if it is to be of value, be accompanied sooner or later by a substantial extension of a franchise upon which that election is based.

Elected chairmen in municipalities.

7. In dealing with the appointment of chairmen in municipalities the Decentralization Commission desired that the municipal chairmen should ordinarily be elected non-officials, that Government officers should not be allowed to stand for election and that if a nominated chairman was required, an official should be selected. The Government of India in their Resolution of 1915 accepted this view, subject to the qualification that in special cases in which it was necessary to nominate the chairman (election being the ordinary method) discretion should be reserved to local Governments to nominate non-officials as well as officials, and subject also to the further condition that although boards should not be absolutely prohibited from electing officials, the election of an official should be a special matter requiring confirmation by the Commissioner or by some higher authority. It may be roughly laid down that at the present time one-third of the chairmen in municipalities in India are nominated officials, one-third are elected officials and one-third are elected non-officials, but certain local Governments have latterly evinced a desire to increase the proportion of elected non-official chairmen within their respective areas. The Government of India accept the proposals of the Decentralization Commission as qualified by the Resolution of 1915 on the understanding that when an official is elected to be a chairman the election should be by a majority of the non-official votes. In certain provinces, such as Burma and the United Provinces, it is already the ordinary practice for municipalities to elect their chairmen. In others, as in Bihar and Orissa and the Punjab, efforts have been made of recent years, but have not always met with the consent of the municipalities concerned, to increase the number of elected chairmen. In others, as in Bengal and Bombay, the principle of election has in practice been extended and further extensions have been seriously considered. The Government of India trust that the principles which they have laid down above will commend themselves to local Governments and they hope that under the arrangement now prescribed there will be a general replacement of nominated official chairmen of municipalities by elected non-officials, though municipalities should be able to elect an official as chairman, or if they so desire, to ask the Government to nominate a chairman.

System in large cities.

8. The Decentralization Commission, however, indicated that in the larger cities it would be desirable to adopt the practice which has been worked with success in the city of Bombay. In order that the large amount of every day administration necessary should be efficiently carried on, this administration is in Bombay placed under a special nominated Commissioner, who is, however, subject to the general control of the corporation and of its standing committee. This proposal was commended in the Resolution of 1915, and it appears to the Government of India to be worthy of consideration. So long as the executive officer of a city is protected from the possible caprices of a board by provisos requiring that, though his nomination may be by the board, his appointment should be approved by Government and that he should not be removed without the sanction of the Government unless by the vote of a substantial majority of the board, it is not necessary to require that the executive officer should be a Government official, and competent men can be appointed to the post who have not been or no longer are in Government service. A system of executive officers on the above general lines has been rendered possible in the cities of the Bombay Presidency by legislation passed in 1914, and in the United Provinces by the United Provinces Municipalities Act of 1916: while a similar system is contemplated by the legislation now under consideration for the corporations of Calcutta and Madras.

Elected chairmen in rural boards.

9. As regards rural boards the Decentralization Commission found that in practice the Collector was nearly always the president of the district board either ex-officio or by nomination or by election, and that the sub-district boards were also, as a rule, presided over by official subordinates of the Collector. They recommended that the Collector should remain as president of the district board as it was undesirable to dissociate him from the interests of the district and it was important to utilise his administrative experience. They differentiated the circumstances of rural boards from those of municipalities in that the latter are less connected with general district administration, that they had reached a higher level of political education and that their jurisdictional area was much smaller and more compact. For these reasons, they held that it was desirable that the presidency of rural boards should continue to vest in the Collector and his assistants, but they added that the vice-presidents should, in each case, be elected non-officials. The Government of India in their Resolution of 1915 accepted the view of the Commission above cited. They added, however, that they would have no objection to non-official chairmen being retained, where they already existed, or freshly appointed where a local Government desired to make the experiment. From statistics provided in 1916 it would appear that at that time out of 191 district boards only 13 had non-official presidents (elected), all but one of these being in the Central Provinces: and as regards sub-district boards, out of a total of 525, the chairmanship of 41, mostly in Bengal, was held by elected non-officials and of 20, nearly all in Madras, by nominated non-officials. Since these figures were collected, however, fresh experiments have been made, more especially in Bengal and Bombay, to extend the principle of elected non-official chairmen; and other provinces also have evinced their desire to move in this direction.

The circumstances of district boards and of large sub-divisional boards, such as those in Madras, are materially different from those of municipalities, since they need much more time and widely extended travelling on the part of the head of the board if the work is to be satisfactorily carried out. The Government of India would urge provincial Governments to arrange for the election of chairmen, wherever this is possible, and where this is not possible to encourage the appointment of non-official chairmen. When the chairman is a non-official, however, they think it essential in regard to district boards and to such sub-district boards as deal with large areas that, as in the case of large cities, the ordinary official work should be largely in the hands of a special executive officer, whose appointment should require the approval of the Government and who should not be removed in ordinary circumstances without Government sanction. If such a board, wishing to save the expense of a special officer, or desirous of remaining under the presidency of the Collector or of one of his assistants, should wish to elect such an official as chairman, the Government of India think that its wishes might be acceded to, subject to the condition that the election should be made by the non-official members of the board and that it should be a special matter requiring confirmation by the Commissioner or some higher authority.

External control :— Powers of taxation in municipalities.

10. In the above paragraphs the views of the Government of India have been expressed in favour of a liberalization of the constitution of local bodies and the consequent substantial reduction of what is ordinarily termed the "internal control" of local bodies by the Government. Turning to the other aspect of the case, namely, the possible reduction of external Government control, they would first deal with the matter of local taxation. Under this head the Decentralization Commission were of opinion that municipalities should have full liberty to impose or alter taxation within the limits laid down by the municipal laws, but that the sanction of an outside authority to any increase in taxation should be required where the law did not prescribe a maximum rate. The Government of India in their Resolution of 1915 expressed a general sympathy with the Commission's recommendations. They thought, however, that power to vary any tax might be reserved by such local Governments as were unable to accept in full the recommendations of the Commission, and that in the case of indebted municipalities the previous sanction of higher authorities should be required to any alteration of taxation. The suggested proviso that local Governments should have power to vary any tax is one that practically renders the general principle nugatory as it enables local Governments to decline to act upon it, and the Government of India consider that this proviso should now be given up in the case of boards which contain substantial elected majorities. The further proviso with regard to indebted municipalities is undoubtedly sound in cases where the Government has lent money to a municipality or guaranteed repayment of its loans and in that case the sanction of Government should obviously be required to any alteration in taxation which might reduce the municipality's resources. Subject to this proviso, the Government of India consider it most important that municipal boards should be allowed to vary taxation in the manner proposed by the Commission. In cases where the constituencies are (as the Government of India consider it essential that they should be) so organized as to be really representative of the body of the rate-payers a municipal board which abuses its powers of taxation will be open to correction by its own constituents and, as will be observed from the remarks made in paragraph 17 below, it is proposed that in cases of grave abuse the Government should retain special powers of intervention.

Powers of taxation in rural boards.

11. The bulk of the income of rural boards is derived from a cess levied upon agricultural land over and above the land revenue and not usually exceeding 1 anna in the rupee, or 6¼ per cent. on the rent value or on the land revenue according to the circumstances of the province. Subject to an exception in favour of railway construction, the Decentralization Commission held that district boards should not be empowered to raise the land cess beyond the above mentioned limits. They represented that the policy of the Government was in favour of lightening the burden on land, that district boards were not fully representative, and that changes in the rate of cess would lead to misunderstanding and fraud. They accordingly declined to recommend the grant of unlimited powers of taxation to rural boards, but thought that they should have power to raise the ordinary land cess up to a rate of 1 anna in the rupee on rental value and to levy rates and fees at their discretion within the limits laid down in the various Acts, the sanction of the Commissioner being required for proposed changes in the rates where no limits had been laid down by the law. In their Resolution of 1915 the Government of India observed that under present conditions any proposal to raise the limit imposed by the existing law would require the previous sanction of the Government of India, that such proposals would need the most careful consideration on their merits and that the Government of India did not consider it necessary for the present to make any pronouncement on the subject. Under the general principle indicated above in respect of municipalities the Government of India would now accept a somewhat similar position. Where no limit has been imposed by the law on the rate of the cess, a change in the rate at which the cess is levied will need the sanction of outside authority: but where a limit is imposed, either by existing or by future legislation, a rural board will be at liberty to vary the rate at which the cess is levied within the limits imposed by law without the interference of outside authority.

The control of services paid for by local bodies.

12. The Commission proposed that, if a municipal or rural board had to pay for a service, it should control it: and that, where it was expedient that the control should be largely in the hands of Government, the service should be a provincial one. The Government of India, though not prepared to accept the proposal in full, declared in their Resolution of 1915 that they approved of it in a somewhat modified form. They considered that charges should be remitted in cases where a local body contributed to Government for services inherent in the duty of supervision and control by Government officers or services which could not expediently be performed except by Government agency. For example, Government might properly cease to charge for clerical establishments in the offices of supervision and control or for the collection of district cesses which it was clearly expedient to realise along with the Government revenue. The Government of India are now of opinion that in this matter it would be well to go the whole way with the Commission, in accordance with the general principle that if local bodies have to raise funds for any particular object they should have the control of these funds. If a board is to provide, for instance, for civil works or medical relief, it ought, subject to such general principles as the Government may prescribe, to have real control over the funds thus provided, and should not be under the constant dictation of Government departments in matters of detail.

The budgets of local bodies.

13. Commenting on the minute control exercised in some provinces over municipal finances, the Decentralization Commission recommended that municipalities should have a free hand with regard to their budgets. The only check required should, in their opinion, be the maintenance of a minimum standing balance to be prescribed by the local Governments. They acknowledged that relaxation in control might lead to mismanagement but they were of opinion that municipal bodies could attain adequate financial responsibility only by the exercise of such powers and by having to bear the consequences of their errors. Further check would be provided by the control which local Governments would exercise over loans and by the power which should be reserved to compel a municipality to discharge its duties in cases of default. In dealing with these proposals in their Resolution of 1915 the Government of India, while introducing exceptions suggested by various local Governments, declared that, though they would accept these reservations for the present, they nevertheless regarded the recommendations of the Commission as expressing a policy to be steadily kept in view and gradually realised. The Government of India now desire that local Governments should make every effort to attain the full realisation of the recommendations in question as soon as possible.

A similar recommendation was made by the Decentralization Commission in respect of rural boards, and the Government of India in their Resolution of 1915 considered that the present restrictions on the powers of these boards with regard to the general principle of budget expenditure should be gradually relaxed with due regard to local conditions and requirements; the fact that an official would almost invariably be the chairman and that powers of inspection and control were retained by Government being sufficient safeguard against gross mismanagement. In this case, as in that of municipalities, the Government of India desire that the recommendations of the Commission should be realised as soon as possible subject only, as in the case of municipalities, to control in the case of rural boards which are indebted to Government and in cases of gross default.

Specification of income and earmarking of grants.

14. The Government of India would similarly endorse the recommendation made in the Decentralization Commission's Report that the system of requiring local bodies to devote fixed portions of their revenues to particular objects of expenditure should be done away with as unduly limiting their freedom of action, subject, as indicated by the Commission, to outside intervention in cases of grave neglect or disregard. If the Government give a grant for a particular object, the money must, of course, be applied thereto, but the Government of India endorse the Commission's recommendation that grants-in-aid should normally take the form of a lump grant or a percentage contribution towards specific services rather than be more definitely earmarked. If, again, funds have been raised locally for particular objects, they must necessarily be applied to those objects; but otherwise the general principle laid down by the Commission is one which the Government of India would wish to see ordinarily observed.

Sanction for works.

15. The Decentralization Commission further proposed that the existing restrictions on municipalities which require outside sanction for works estimated to cost more than a certain amount should be removed, but that Government should scrutinize and sanction estimates of projects to be carried out from the loan funds. In their Resolution of 1915 the Government of India observed that the majority of the local Governments were prepared to relax the existing rules in the direction of giving more freedom to municipal boards, and the Government of India expressed themselves in favour of extended freedom subject, where necessary, to proper precautions against extravagant and ill-considered projects. With reference to a similar recommendation made by the Decentralization Commission in respect of rural boards the Government of India in their Resolution expressed their opinion that the grant to rural boards of full powers in the allotment of funds and in the passing of estimates could not for the present at least be conceded, but the extent of the necessary financial control might depend in the case of rural boards on the competence of the staff employed, and where this varied it would not be desirable to lay down hard and fast rules for the whole of a province. The Government of India still adhere to the views expressed by them in 1915, but they desire to go somewhat beyond the general pronouncement then made and would ask for a definite indication on the part of local Governments that, allowing for the necessarily different circumstances of different boards, there will now be made a material advance in the direction of the proposal made by the Decentralization Commission. It may be found convenient to arrange for this advance by a classification of bodies according to the character of their local technical staff, and to divide them into three or more classes according as sanction is not required, or is required in the case of works whose cost is calculated to exceed certain specified figures.

Establishments of local bodies.

16. It was also recommended by the Decentralization Commission that the degree of outside control over municipal establishments should be relaxed, but that the appointments of municipal secretaries or other chief executive officers or engineers and health officers, where these existed, should require the sanction of the local Government in the case of cities and of the Commissioner elsewhere, and that the same sanction should be required for any alteration in the emoluments of these posts and for the appointment and dismissal of the occupants. As regards other appointments, the Commission proposed that the local Government should lay down for municipal boards general rules in respect to such matters as leave, acting and travelling allowances, pensions or provident funds and maximum salaries, and that their sanction should be required for any deviation therefrom. The system recommended by the Commission is already substantially in force in Bombay, and almost all the local Governments expressed their willingness to relax outside control over the appointment of the staff employed by local bodies. The Government of India are now of opinion that steps should be taken to carry out into practice the general recommendations of the Commission in respect of municipalities: and that as regards rural boards, for which the Commission made similar recommendations, similar action should be taken. They consider, moreover, that the requirement of Government sanction to the appointment and dismissal of the special officers above mentioned may properly be accompanied by the right on the part of Government to require their dismissal in cases of proved incompetency.

Outside powers of intervention.

17. In addition to the specific forms of outside control to which reference has above been made, the existing legislation confers certain special powers of intervention on the part of Government officers. The Decentralization Commission were of opinion that the Collector should retain certain powers given under the existing Acts, such as the power to suspend in certain cases the operation of municipal resolutions and that the Commissioner should be able to require a municipality, which had neglected a particular service, to take such action as he might consider necessary. The local Governments generally, and the Government of India in 1915, were of opinion that special powers of outside control were necessary and should continue. The Commission also recommended that the special powers of control over rural boards vested in outside authorities under the existing Acts should continue, and the local Governments in general and the Government of India accepted this view.

It is certainly necessary to maintain such ultimate powers of intervention which are in no way peculiar to India, and which carry out the view expressed in paragraph 17 of the Government of India's Resolution of the 17th of May 1882, that the control of Government over local bodies should be exercised from without rather than from within, and that the Government instead of dictating the acts of local bodies should revise and check them. In view of the relaxations which are contemplated in respect of the powers of external control exercised by Government in respect of taxation, budgets, public works and local establishments, it might be expected that the powers of Government officers in respect of external intervention should, if altered at all, be altered in the direction of greater stringency. In consequence of the increasing demand for sanitary improvements, it may indeed be necessary to provide a special agency for enforcing modern requirements in the matter of sanitation, and to provide that agency with adequate powers, and this is a matter upon which the Government of India will, if necessary, address local Governments separately at a later date. It is moreover possible that very important changes may be necessary hereafter in the procedure and organization of public works establishments as a consequence of the inquiries recently made by the Public Works Department Reorganization Committee whose report is at present under the consideration of the Government of India. But, as has been already remarked at the outset of this Resolution, the general principle before the Government of India is that, except in cases of really grave mismanagement, local bodies should be permitted to make mistakes and learn by them rather than be subjected to interference either from within or from outside. The Government of India do not therefore, with the possible exceptions above noted, suggest the addition of any substantial powers of intervention on the part of Government officers, and they trust that in the exercise of such powers as the law allows the principle which has above been referred to may be borne in mind. They would further suggest that penal action from outside might in some cases be dispensed with if the Government took power to itself to dissolve a municipal council or rural board and require a fresh election before making use of the more drastic powers conferred upon it by the legislature.

Central control.

18. As regards the agency through which the outside control of Government should be exercised the proposal has from time to time been put forward that the main powers of control should be concentrated in the hands of a central board at provincial headquarters working under Government and invested with powers of compulsion similar to those enjoyed by the Local Government Board in England. A proposal to constitute a board of this character was put forward for Bengal in 1882 and was negatived by the Secretary of State. It was again examined by the Decentralization Commission and rejected by them in 1909. The local Governments concurred in the conclusions of the Commission and the Government of India, in their Resolution of 1915, vetoed the scheme as not only unnecessary but tending also to perpetuate the very centralization in local affairs which it is the object of Government to diminish. The Government of India recognise that the powers of Collectors and Commissioners should be maintained but they would suggest for the consideration of the provincial Governments the constitution of a central body which should co-ordinate the experiences of the local bodies and provide improved control and guidance by entertaining further expert inspecting establishments, if necessary. Such a central body should be in direct touch with the Government and might fitly be presided over by a member of the Executive Council where such exists. It should further be considered whether in place of a formal board there might not be a Standing Committee for local and municipal affairs in direct contact with the Government, to be largely drawn from elected members of the Legislative Council.

Notified areas, etc.

19. In the above paragraphs the Government of India have indicated a few of the main principles which they consider should be borne in mind in the future relations of Government to the local bodies ordinarily known as municipalities and district or sub-district boards. They do not consider it necessary to lay down any general principle in regard to embryonic municipalities whether these be styled "notified areas", or "village unions" as in Madras, or "town panchayats" as suggested by the Decentralization Commission. Many of the bodies dealing with these areas will in due course develop into municipal councils, but until they are fit for this stage they must obviously be subjected to greater control and be less non-official in character. It might often be undesirable, for instance, that the chairman should be a non-official. The development of these bodies is left to the discretion of local Governments subject merely to the general instruction that they should be allowed as full authority as is possible and their powers should be gradually enhanced.

Village panchayats.

20. The policy initiated by the Resolution of Lord Ripon's government related solely to the machinery of local self-government as represented by municipal or sub-district boards, but reference has, from time to time, been made during subsequent years to the possibility of providing some organization for the development of village life and this aspect of the question was brought into special prominence by the Decentralization Commission of 1909. A special section of their report was devoted by that Commission to the question of village panchayats and the Commission indicated the principles upon which such panchayats should, in their opinion, be instituted. As, however, there is some misapprehension as to the nature of the recommendations of the Commission, it is advisable to bear in mind the crucial point that in their proposals in this respect, the Decentralization Commission were not contemplating an additional machine for the promotion of local self-government in the sense in which that term is used in the Resolution of Lord Ripon's government and in subsequent official literature but desired to develop the corporate life of the individual villages and to give the villagers an interest in, and some control over, local village affairs. Consequently, they made a clear distinction between the panchayat organization which they recommended and artificial agglomerations, such as the Madras local fund unions, the chaukidari unions in Bengal and the sanitary committees to be found in the United Provinces, Bombay and the Central Provinces. These artificial organizations may be found useful as an adjunct to local self-government in the sense in which that word is used in the Resolution of 1882 by affording smaller administrative areas in that connection than those administered by municipal or sub-district boards; but such organizations are quite unconnected with the development of individual village corporate life. The Decentralization Commission have pointed out that the common traditions of the village, the fact that the inhabitants are largely connected by ties of blood and caste and by many interests in common and the measure of corporate life still existing in Indian villages which is shown occasionally by voluntary taxation for special purposes warrant the action recommended by the Commission for the organization of panchayats. The Government of India consider that the distinction drawn by the Commission is a real one and that in dealing with the principles governing general proposals in respect of panchayats attention should be confined either to individual villages or to villages which are so closely connected that their people habitually act together.

Proposals of the Decentralization Commission in respect of village panchayats.

21. The Decentralization Commission recognised, however, very clearly that the different character of the villages not merely in different provinces but in a single province and even within the parts of a province would necessitate caution in taking up the policy of developing panchayats, and the Government of India while recognising the necessity of making some effort in the direction of developing village government are constrained to emphasize the note of caution sounded by the Commission. Similarly, while the Commission indicated certain general functions and powers which might be allotted to panchayats, they were careful to explain that there should be no question of developing these on any uniform system. They contended that functions must be gradually and cautiously assigned and must vary with the circumstances of the locality and the manner in which the panchayat discharges the duties first placed upon it. They recommended that the panchayats should be placed under the district authorities, and, if possible, under special assistants, that they should be confined, as a rule, to one village, and that the members should be informally selected, the headman being ordinarily ex-officio chairman. They proposed that to these panchayats should be attached civil and criminal jurisdiction in petty cases but that the courts might be given special revisional jurisdiction in cases where there appeared to be some grave miscarriage of justice. The administrative functions of the panchayats were to include sanitation and education and the power of taxation being likely to lead to unpopularity was not to be conferred, but the panchayat was to obtain part of the land cess and grants from sub-district boards or Collectors together with small fees, etc.

Views expressed in the Resolution of 1915.

22. With the general line of the Commission's proposals the Government of India in their Resolution of 1915 expressed their concurrence, and in leaving the matter in the hands of local Governments they suggested the following general principles as indicating the lines on which advance was most likely to be successful:—

(i) The experiments should be made in selected villages or areas larger than a village, where the people in general agree.

(ii) Legislation, where necessary, should be permissive and general. The powers and duties of panchayats, whether administrative or judicial, need not and, indeed, should not, be identical in every village.

(iii) In areas where it is considered desirable to confer judicial as well as administrative functions upon panchayats the same body should exercise both functions.

(iv) Existing village administrative committees, such as village sanitation and education committees, should be merged in the village panchayats where these are established.

(v) The jurisdiction of panchayats in judicial cases should ordinarily be permissive, but in order to provide inducement to litigants, reasonable facilities might be allowed to persons wishing to have their cases decided by panchayats. For instance, court fees, if levied, should be small, technicalities in procedure should be avoided and possibly a speedier execution of decrees permitted.

(vi) Powers of permissive taxation may be conferred on panchayats, where desired, subject to the control of the local Government but the development of the panchayat system should not be prejudiced by an excessive association with taxation.

(vii) The relations of panchayats on the administrative side with other administrative bodies should be clearly defined. If they are financed by district or sub-district boards, there can be no objection to some supervision by such boards.

Modifications now suggested in the above views.

23. The development of the panchayat system has since attracted considerable attention in several provinces and legislation has been introduced in Assam for the purpose of instituting a system of this kind, while a special committee has investigated and reported on the subject in the United Provinces. The Government of India desire that the matter should be further pursued and with the exceptions noted below they concur in the views expressed in the Resolution of 1915. They would, however, modify the first of the principles suggested in that Resolution by saying that the area under a panchayat should normally be a village unless, as above stated, villages are so closely connected that they may be treated as one. The Government of India would further omit the seventh of the principles quoted above on the ground that at the present stage it is not desirable to make any rigid classification of the connection of panchayats with other administrative bodies from which indeed they should be kept apart as much as possible, while the way in which they do their work should be tested by inspections by the administrative district staff. At the outset, moreover, such control as is necessary in the way of replacing incompetent panchayats or members of panchayats, should be exercised by the local revenue officers provided that these be of a grade higher than that of Tahsildar.

As regards the constitution of the panchayat, the points to which the Government of India attach most importance are the association of the principal village officers with the panchayats and an informal election of the other members by the villagers themselves. They would, however, allow the panchayat to choose its own president and would not render it obligatory that the president should be the village headman as suggested by the Decentralization Commission. Of the possible functions to be assigned to panchayats the most important are, in their opinion, village sanitation and village education (in the directions indicated in paragraph 712 of the Decentralization Commission's Report) and jurisdiction in petty civil and criminal cases. With reference to this last class of functions, it is especially desirable that the panchayat should be, as a rule, a body representing a single village, otherwise the great safeguard for the proper disposal of such cases, namely, local public opinion, will be lost. It should also be permissible, though not as the Commission suggested universally necessary, that the panchayat should receive some portion of the land cess raised in their villages. The Government of India are also prepared, differing herein from the opinion of the Decentralization Commission, to allow to the panchayats voluntary powers of supplementary taxation, the proceeds of which would be devoted to the special purpose or purposes for which the tax was levied.

Exceptions and alternatives.

24. Where it is decided to call these panchayats into existence, the legislation entailed should be as simple and elastic as possible with the fullest scope for details. These may be left to rules which will be gradually evolved and be improved by experience. The Government of India, however, recognise the impossibility of any universal enforcement of a system of panchayats by reason of the different circumstances prevailing in different tracts, in some of which indeed there are no regular villages at all. It is essential, however, that an effective beginning should be made, where possible; and, if the Government of any province, where there is still some real village life, should think that these recommendations are unsuited to local circumstances, it will be open to such a Government to put forward alternative proposals. It is not, for instance, intended to prevent in any way the establishment of unions or circles for local self-government purposes. As observed above, such unions or circles may be a very useful adjunct to district and sub-district boards relieving them of duties which can be better discharged by committees dealing with smaller areas and such bodies would be especially useful and desirable in tracts in which it is found impossible or premature to establish a village panchayat system.

Action now required.

25. It will probably be found on examination that a large part of the suggestions put forward in this Resolution can be brought into effect without any change in the existing legislation and so far as this can be done, action should be taken without further delay. In some provinces, as in Madras, the amendment of the existing law is already in contemplation. In others, as in the United Provinces and Assam, there has been recent legislation which to a large extent meets the necessities of the present Resolution and it will be for the local Governments in such provinces to determine whether fresh legislation will be necessary at the present time to meet the requirements now suggested. The development of a village panchayat system, where this is undertaken, should in any case be secured by separate legislation unconnected with the Acts relating to municipal and rural boards.

It is hoped that by the adoption of the policy indicated in this Resolution a substantial advance may be made in the direction of a more developed and more liberal form of local self-government. It is probably in the sphere of local self-government more than in any other that the changes which are now being effected in India will touch the great mass of the population. If the local administration is freed in the manner proposed from undue official guidance, a vast number of persons should feel themselves for the first time placed in effective control of the matters which affect their every day life and the local bodies will be invested with opportunities not hitherto enjoyed by them of improving the conditions of the populations entrusted to their charge. The duties of local bodies cover most of the activities upon which the essential welfare of the country depends. They have the care of the public health and all the circumstances upon which that health depends: they control elementary education: they construct and maintain local buildings and communications and they touch the life and convenience of the people at every point. In the development of their interests and the extension of their responsibilities the self-government of the country will secure a very real and important advance and it is on the increased experience to be gained in the administration of local civic affairs that the country must to a large degree rely for the expansion of its self-dependence in the sphere of central governments.

Prospects of crops are fair. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The price of common rice has fallen slightly.

Bengal.—Light to moderate rain fell almost all over the Province and ploughing of fields for winter rice and sowing and weeding of jute and autumn paddy continue. Sowing of winter paddy in nurseries has commenced in some districts. Prospects of sugarcane, jute, lowland paddy and other standing crops are generally reported to be good. The average price of common rice for the Province shows a slight tendency to fall.

Bihar and Orissa.—The rainfall during the week was general over the Province, the fall being mostly light to moderate. Preparation of lands for autumn crops continues. Sowings have commenced in some districts. Standing crops are doing well. The price of common rice has risen in four districts, fallen in four and remained stationary in the remaining districts as compared with that of the preceding week. Cattle disease is reported from ten districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—Light rain has again been general almost throughout the Provinces. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops in places and weighments of opium are nearing completion. Sowing and hoeing of sugarcane, irrigation of extra crops and sugarcane, preparation of land for and sowings of autumn crops, indigo, paddy and cotton continues in places. Standing crops are doing well, though slight damage by hailstorms is reported from parts of the Tehri State. Prospects are generally favourable. Agricultural stock is in good condition and a little cattle disease is reported from a few districts. Fodder and water are sufficient and market supplies adequate. Prices are almost stationary but are tending to rise.

The weekly report on scarcity in Garhwal is as follows:—The average rainfall during the week was 105 cents which was beneficial. Harvesting, threshing and winnowing of spring crops have been completed in places. Standing crops are doing well. Sowing of mandua has commenced. Cattle disease is still reported from some pattis. Fodder and water are sufficient. Advances for importing grain are being made. Distribution of subsistance takavi and grain tickets continue. Markets in Central Garhwal are well supplied. Grain is being imported into Upper Garhwal by persons who have been given advances. Some improvement is experienced in the north from the ripening of spring crops which are generally in good condition. Gratuitous relief has been started and 177 persons were relieved during the week. Prices are falling slightly, wheat and barley are selling at 6 and 8 seers per rupee respectively.

Punjab.—Except for light showers in parts of a few districts the weather remained dry. Harvesting of wheat and other spring corps continues. The yield is generally good on irrigated and below normal to normal on unirrigated areas. Cotton and other autumn crops are being sown to the normal extent. The condition of standing extra spring and autumn crops is average to good. Cattle are generally healthy and fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are stationary but have a slight downward tendency and range generally between normal and warning rates. Price of wheat:—Rawalpindi 8½, Lahore 9½, Ferozepore and Lyallpur 10 and Ambala 10½ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless. Harvesting of spring crops is in progress. Prospects are fair to good. Wheat sells in Peshawar at 8½ and in Dera Ismail Khan at 10 seers per rupee.

Jammu.—Prices are stationary. Harvesting has been completed. No rain fell during the week.

Kashmir.—The week was generally dry, clear and hot. Standing crops are in fair condition in the valley. Cutting of crops has commenced in Mozaffarabad. The probable outturn is normal. Cattle are generally healthy. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—The weather is hot. Harvesting of spring crops is concluding. Prospects are good. Cattle are in good condition. Fodder and water is sufficient. Prices are rising.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was partial. Harvesting, threshing and winnowing of spring crops continue. Lands are being prepared for autumn crops. Agricultural stock is generally good. Scarcity of fodder prevails in some parganas in Gwalior. Prices are high.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be hot with occasional clouds and high winds. Nine districts received light local showers of rain. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops is still in progress in parts of certain districts. Sugarcane, the only standing crop is in flourishing condition in districts where it is grown. Preparation of land for the sowing of the next autumn crops is proceeding rapidly everywhere. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except in Hoshangabad. Fodder is dear or scarce in parts of Narsinghpur, Hoshangabad, Betul, Chhindwara, Nagpur and Yeotmal. Variations in prices are slight and irregular.

Feudatory States.—Ploughing of fields for the sowing of the next autumn crops continues.

EXPLANATION

All Maps from Surveys after 1905 called "Modern" are printed in 4 or 5 colours, i.e., water forms in blue, towns and roads in red, forests and jungle in green, cultivation in yellow, hill contours in brown with shading to emphasize the hills, and other details in black.

All Maps from Surveys prior to 1905 are printed in black only or in black with hills in brown.

All Maps on scales 1"=4 miles, $\frac{1}{1,000,000}$ or nearly 1"=16 miles and $\frac{1}{2,000,000}$ or nearly 1"=32 miles are printed in either one or two of the following editions, except those marked "Provisional Issue" which are from old surveys:—

(1) Layered edition, printed in colours with contours and graduated layer tints to show altitudes and shading to emphasize the hills. (Colour ribands along boundaries cannot be added to this edition.)

(2) Political edition, printed in colours with colour ribands along boundaries, contours to show altitudes and shading to emphasize the hills.

(3) Provisional issue, generally printed in black or in black with hills in brown. Colour ribands along boundaries are added by hand when required at an extra cost of 2 annas per sheet.

APRIL 1918.

During the month under report, 26 companies (including two in the Mysore State) were registered with an aggregate authorised capital of about Rs. 1,14 lakhs, as against 25 companies with an aggregate capital of Rs. 47 lakhs in the corresponding month of the preceding year. Bengal accounted for eight companies (Rs. 46½ lakhs), Bombay for six companies (Rs. 35 lakhs) and Burma for four companies (Rs. 26 lakhs). Of the 24 companies in British India as many as 22 were registered as private companies, due to the restrictions imposed on the flotation of public companies by Act XII of 1918. The largest flotation in April was that of the Allied Cotton and Dye Works Limited, Calcutta (Rs. 25 lakhs).

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

CALCUTTA, MAY 29, 1918

Final General Memorandum on the WINTER OILSEEDS (Rape, Mustard and Linseed) Crop of 1917-18

This forecast is based upon reports received from provinces where rape, mustard, and linseed are grown to any considerable extent. These provinces contain 98·8 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard and 98·9 per cent of the total linseed area in British India. Of the Native States, estimates are furnished only by Hyderabad and the Native States in the Bombay Presidency (including Baroda).

Owing to the copious monsoon of 1917, conditions at sowing time were favourable; but the absence of winter rains adversely affected the growth of the crops in most of the important oilseeds growing provinces.

I

The total area under rape and mustard is reported to be 6,884,000 acres, which is 6 per cent above the finally revised area of last year. The total estimated yield is 1,111,000 tons, as against 1,191,000 tons, the revised final figure of last year, or a decrease of 7 per cent.

The detailed figures for the provinces are given below :—

In addition to the areas for which particulars are given above, rape and mustard are grown in certain other tracts in British India, and the average area so grown for the last five years has been some 72,000 acres with an estimated yield of 12,000 tons.

II

The total area under linseed amounts to 3,737,000 acres, which is 5 per cent above the finally revised area of last year. The total estimated yield is 507,000 tons, as against 526,000 tons, the revised final estimate of last year, or a decrease of 4 per cent. The detailed figures for each province are given below :—

(a) Including Native States.

In addition to the areas for which particulars are given above, linseed is grown in certain other tracts in British India, and the average area so grown for the last five years has been some 37,000 acres with an estimated yield of 5,000 tons.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Rape and Mustard

United Provinces (40·2 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The area sown with the unmixed crop is reported to be 150,000 acres, which is 2 per cent below the area of last year. The yield is estimated at 22,000 tons, which is 21 per cent less than last year's yield. The area and yield of rapeseed grown mixed with other crops, as borders and lines, and used chiefly for home consumption, are roughly estimated at 2,815,000 acres and 405,000 tons, as against 2,500,000 acres and 468,000 tons last year. The crop suffered severely from absence of winter rains, and the outturn for the provinces as a whole is estimated at 60 per cent of the normal.

Bengal (20·4 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The area sown is reported to be 1,154,000 acres, which is 6 per cent below last year's area. The decrease is attributed to excessive rain and floods in places at sowing time. The yield is estimated at 211,000 tons, which is 11 per cent below the yield of last year. The dry weather that prevailed since December interfered with the growth of the crop and caused considerable damage in certain districts. The season was, on the whole, unfavourable.

Punjab (17·1 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area is now estimated at 1,131,000 acres, which is 11 per cent more than last year's area. The increase is attributed to heavy rainfall at the time of sowing. The yield is estimated at 167,000 tons, which is 8 per cent above the yield of last year. The yield was considerably below normal, especially on unirrigated lands, on account of an almost complete failure of the winter rains. Toria (an early variety of rapeseed), practically an irrigated crop which is sown and reaped much earlier, did better than the other oilseeds.

Bihar and Orissa (11·4 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 805,000 acres, which is 2 per cent above that of last year. The yield is estimated at 186,000 tons, which exceeds last year's yield by 6 per cent. The weather conditions were generally favourable, although the failure of winter rains is reported to have affected the outturn in some districts.

Assam (4·7 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 273,000 acres, which is 2 per cent below last year's area. The yield is estimated at 47,000 tons, which is also 2 per cent less than that of last year. The weather was generally good at sowing time, but latterly it proved unfavourable owing to want of rain.

Sind (3·2 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 345,000 acres (15,000 acres being in the Khairpur State), which shows an increase of 12 per cent over last year's area. The increase is attributed to favourable inundation and sufficient rains. The yield is estimated at 40,000 tons (1,000 tons in the Khairpur State) as against 46,000 tons last year. The outturn is estimated at half the normal in Larkana, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, and Upper Sind Frontier, and slightly over it elsewhere.

Bombay (0·1 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area reported is 69,000 acres (66,000 acres being in the Native States), which is 25 per cent in excess of last year's area. The total yield is estimated at 18,000 tons (17,000 tons being in the Native States) as compared with 14,000 tons last year. The crop is reported to have done well.

North-West Frontier Province (1·7 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is estimated at 134,000 acres, which falls 18 per cent below that of last year. The yield is estimated at 15,000 tons, which is 25 per cent short of last year's yield.

Hyderabad reports 8,000 acres and 200 tons, against 6,000 acres and 200 tons last year.

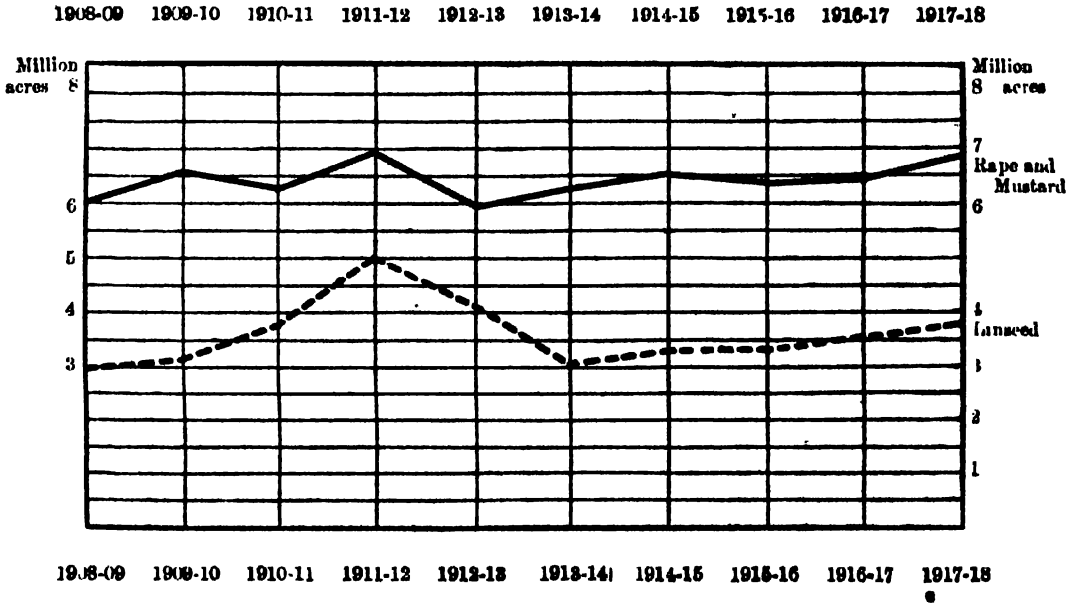
Linseed

Central Provinces and Berar (38·3 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 1,260,000 acres (50,000 acres being in Berar), which exceeds last year's area by 7 per cent. Favourable climatic conditions at sowing time, good prices, and replacement of spoilt jawar and cotton by linseed mainly account for the expansion in area. The yield is estimated at 92,000 tons (5,000 tons being in Berar), which shows a decrease of 7 per cent as compared with last year. Germination was successful, but some resowing was necessary in parts of four districts. Absence of winter showers coupled with cold winds and cloudy weather subsequently damaged the crop in parts of several districts. For the provinces, as a whole, the average outturn is estimated at 90 per cent of the normal.

United Provinces (30·2 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area under linseed sown unmixed is reported to be 362,000 acres, which is 10 per cent above that of last year. The yield is estimated at 61,000 tons, which is 9 per cent short of last year's yield. The area and yield of linseed grown mixed with other crops, and used chiefly for home consumption, are roughly estimated at 695,000 acres and 117,000 tons, as against 675,000 acres and 138,000 tons last year. The crop suffered from absence of winter rains and in parts of the provinces from insects and hail. For the provinces, as a whole, the outturn is estimated at 80 per cent of the normal.

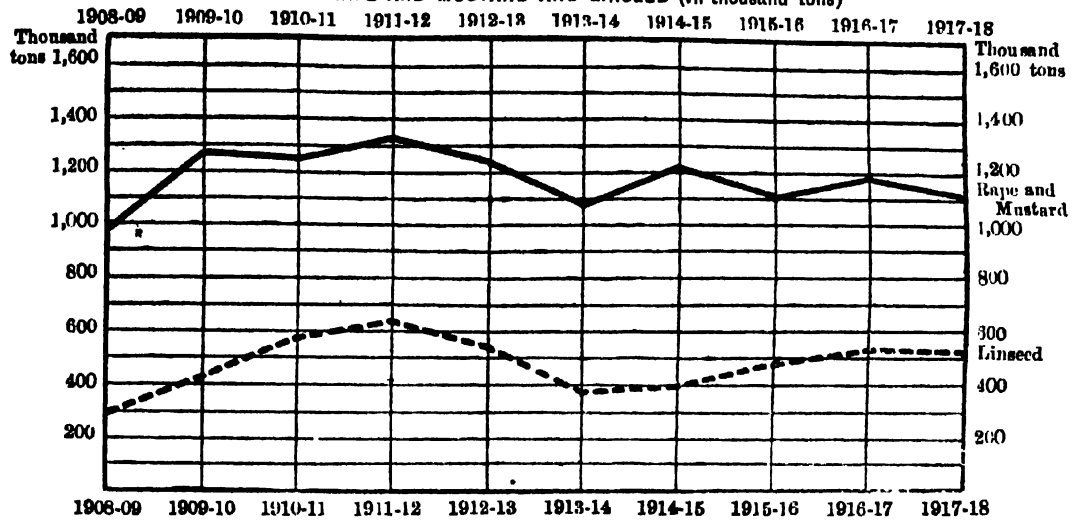
Bihar and Orissa (18·9 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area is reported to be 736,000 acres, which is 5 per cent above last year's area. The increase is attributed to favourable weather conditions at sowing time and also to an anticipation of high prices. The yield is estimated at 170,000 tons, which is 10 per cent above that of last year. The seasonal conditions were generally favourable although the failure of winter rains is reported to have affected the outturn in some districts.

Bengal (5·6 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 144,000 acres, which is 8 per cent below last year's area. The decrease is attributed to excessive rain and floods at sowing time. The yield is estimated at 22,000 tons, which is 12 per cent below last year's yield. The season was, on the whole, unfavourable, and the average outturn is estimated at 69 per cent of the normal as against 73 per cent last year.



Bombay (4·7 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 161,000 acres (14,000 acres being in the Native States), which is 5 per cent below last year's area. The total yield is estimated at 21,000 tons (1,000 tons being in the Native States), which falls 9 per cent below that of last year.

Punjab (1·2 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 38,000 acres, which is 19 per cent above that of last year. The yield is estimated at 5,000 tons, as against 3,000 tons last year. Conditions at sowing time were favourable.



Hyderabad reports 341,000 acres under linseed, which shows an increase of 6 per cent as compared with last year. The total yield is estimated at 19,000 tons, which is 19 per cent above that of last year.

The area and yield of linseed in Canada are stated to be 919,000 acres and 148,000 tons, compared with 657,000 acres and 206,000 tons in 1916. The area under linseed in the Argentine in 1917-18 is estimated at 3,232,000 acres as compared with 3,206,000 acres in 1916-17.

COTTON PRESS RETURN.

No. 13 OF 1917-18.

PREFATORY NOTE.

THE COTTON SEASON, 1917-18.

The yield of the cotton crop of 1917-18 was estimated in February, 1918, at 4,035,000 bales on an area of 24,781,000 acres, as compared with 4,489,000 bales on an area of 21,745,000 acres, the revised final figures of the preceding year. There was a decrease of 10 per cent in outturn. There were 890,000 bales of cotton pressed in the pressing factories, and 309,000 bales of unpressed cotton received in the spinning mills, from 1st September, 1917 to 15th March, 1918, as against 1,305,000 bales and 276,000 bales, respectively, during the corresponding period of last year, showing a decrease of 32 per cent in the case of presses, but an increase of 12 per cent in the case of mills. Too much stress should not be laid on the accuracy of these returns as a means of checking the forecast estimates of outturn, as there is at present no system in vogue of furnishing complete returns from all presses and mills. The figures for the Native States of Hyderabad, Central India, Rajputana, and Mysore are, as will be seen from the footnotes to the tables, incomplete and have been excluded from this comparison.

The normal decline in plague mortality in the month of May was experienced in practically all administrations during the week under report.

Though the total plague mortality of India was double that of the corresponding week of 1917 it is satisfactory to note that only 420 deaths were reported from the Bombay Presidency as compared with 604 during the week ending May 19, 1917. Excluding Sind the incidence of the disease in the Bombay Presidency is much more satisfactory than it was last year. In this part of India the onset of monsoon conditions is quickly followed by an increase of plague and the severity of the subsequent epidemic is directly related to the amount of infection that is able to survive the adverse climatic conditions of May and June.

Awarded the Military Cross.

Subadar-Major Bhim Sing Thapa, I.O.M., Gurkha Rifles.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 12th November

1917. During an attack he led his platoon with great skill and gallantry through intense machine gun and rifle fire. After the capture of the position, seeing that a gap had occurred between the right of the battalion and the next unit, he, on his own initiative, filled up the gap and assuming command of that portion of the line (the British officer having been killed) consolidated his position under very heavy shell and machine gun fire.

Subadar Damar Sing Gurung, Gurkha Rifles.

For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership on the 19th January 1918, during the capture of an enemy patrol and the subsequent counter-attack by a force nearly twice as large as our own. The party with Subadar Damar Sing was the first to charge the patrol, and one of the enemy had already unhooked his bomb and was about to throw it when Subadar Damar Sing, who had outstripped the rest of his men, unhesitatingly sprang on him and tore the bomb from his hand. Subsequently, Subadar Damar Sing voluntarily took a message across one hundred yards of exposed ground under heavy fire to another portion of our line, of which he took command until the attack was finally repulsed.

Awarded the Indian Order of Merit, 1st Class.

Subadar Muhammad Arbi, I. O. M., Rifles.

This Indian officer occupied a post on a hill with a small detachment in action on the 19th November 1917. The party was heavily shelled and was attacked three times. The position was an important one, and it was due to the courage, skill and initiative of Subadar Muhammad Arbi that it was held.

Awarded the Indian Order of Merit, 2nd Class.

Subadar Balbir Thapa, Gurkha Rifles.

For conspicuous gallantry and leadership. During an attack on the 12th November 1917, throughout the advance over some fifteen hundred yards of open ground under continuous shell, rifle and machine gun fire, by his personal example he kept the advancing line steady and unfaltering. In the actual assault he inspired all about him by his keenness and dash, and was himself among the foremost in the enemy's position on the crest of the hill.

Subadar Randhoj Rana, Gurkha Rifles.

For conspicuous gallantry on the night of the 21st-22nd November 1917. He led and organised the remnants of his company with great skill, counter-attacking the enemy and inflicting heavy loss.

Jemadar Lal Bahadur Gurung, Gurkha Rifles.

For conspicuous bravery and gallantry on the 21st November, 1917. Though severely wounded he refused to leave his command. His initiative and coolness kept his men well in hand and they were able to beat off a determined attack.

Jemadar Harnath Singh, Rifles.

On the night of the 21st-22nd November 1917 this Indian officer very gallantly led his men during an attack and helped to capture a machine gun. He charged three separate lines of trenches and displayed much ability in withdrawing his men when ordered.

Jemadar Bhim Singh, Rifles.

On the night of the 21st-22nd November 1917 this Indian officer very gallantly led his platoon, cleared the enemy trenches and assisted in the capture of a machine gun. He behaved gallantly in holding on to the trenches during the whole of the 22nd November, under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

Subadar (Temporary Subadar-Major) Bhura Ram, Rifles.

On the 21st-22nd November 1917 this officer displayed great courage under shell fire until wounded on the 22nd. His example animated all ranks.

Subadar Lal Khan, Rifles.

This officer was associated with Subadar Muhammad Arbi in the action on the 19th November 1917, described above, and shared with him the success in seizing and retaining the position mentioned.

Jemadar Hans Ram, Rifles.

On the 22nd November 1917 this officer displayed great courage and determination in holding his trench under very severe bombardments and in leading his platoon in two successful counter-attacks.

Jemadar Arjun Ram, Rifles.

On the night of the 21st-22nd November 1917 he acted with great courage and initiative, and gallantly led his platoon into action; he also helped in the capture of a machine gun.

Jemadar Asbir Gurung, Gurkha Rifles.

For gallantry and devotion to duty on the 11th December 1917, when in command of a strong patrol sent to reconnoitre a village which he found strongly held. Subsequently, when our attack on the enemy position took place, he materially assisted our advance by his covering fire.
